Employment Funds Are Allocated In Seaside

The city has made an agreement to ratify $86,000 in Emergency Employment Act funds with the county after one councilman insisted that the money be allocated in a more "innovative" manner.

The council's vote followed a sharp debate between Mayor Louis N. Haddad and councilman Stephen Ross during which the mayor called the local antipoverty program directed by Ross, "a failure."

The agreement involves a total of $21,732 that will enable the city to hire two policemen, a clerk stenographer, two firemen. The stenographer will be for the parks and recreation department. A public works custodian is also needed and eight other positions to be covered by a separate contract to provide jobs for the unemployed and underemployed.

A number of innovative things claimed Ross, specifically a human relations coordinator, had been omitted from the list of positions to be filled with federal money.

"We need a person to deal with the needs of the unemployed in the community," he declared.

Other councilmen and staff members insisted that the city was committed, if effect, to fill vacant positions recommended in a personnel report prepared about 18 months ago by a municipal consulting firm.

Ross appeared unsatisfied with the explaination and recalled his impression that the co-ordinator position had been created long ago.

Haddad said that wasn't the case at all and that, furthermore, such a function should be filled by the Monterey Peninsula Area Service Center, directed by Ross. "I think the whole program is a failure," the mayor said.

Ross retorted, "if you give me that $86,000, I assure you that we'd have a coordinator," and Ross pointed out that his budget includes only $13,000 of so-called versatile funding from the Monterey County Antipoverty Coordinating Council.

The mayor alleged that Roos was insisting that someone else do work for him before Councilman Billie L. Barton called for a halt to the exchange. "We're beginning to sound like the former council, she said. The contract was then approved on a voice vote, with no dissents.

Included among other business was:

1. Directing the city attorney to prepare a zoning ordinance amendment reorganizing the board of architectural review. It would replace the existing board, the tree committee and a special review board assigned to the gateway redevelopment project.

2. Setting November 4, for a hearing on the city's proposal to annex 14.4 acres along Highway 1 from the present city limits north to an extension of 1st street in Ford Ord.

3. Scheduling Robert Bratt's request to rezone a lot at 480 Palm Avenue from highway service to multiple-family for October 7.

Machado Denies Petition

Supreior Court Judge Elmer L. Machado denied a petition that three former Seaside councilmen be declared winners of the June 29 recall election.

Machado upheld the constutionality of several sections of the elections code in a three-paragraph decision which was challenged by Pearl M. Carey, Gerald A. McGrath and Oliver F. Murray.

Charging violations of the 1st and 14th amendments of the U.S. Constitution, they contended they were entitled to their council posts because more Seaside residents voted against their recall than voted for their successors.

A basic objection of the challengers was that a code section that prohibits an official up for recall to be listed as a candidate to succeed himself.

Machado said the contested code sections appeared constutional as applied to the case at hand. He declined to express an opinion on a provision that a recalled councilman is ineligible to seek re-election for one year, holding it inapplicable to the Seaside case.

Raymond Shonholtz, a Seaside attorney who represented several citizen-voters, said he and Herbert A. Schwartz, counsel for the three former councilmen, would probably continue the action at the appeal court level, either in the form of an original writ or as a direct appeal from Machado's decision. He said he would discuss the matter with Schwartz on the latter's return from vacation.

Representing the city in the court action were Myron B. Haas, interim city attorney, and William B. Burleigh, Carmel city attorney, who took part when Haas was on Army reserve duty.

Harambe Denied Support After Hardship Plea

The Seaside Council has denied (for the second time in three weeks) a request for financial support of the Harambe Free Clinic, pleading financial hardship and claiming a lack of proven need for such a facility.

The 3-2 vote was taken before a predominantly, but by no means exclusively, black audience, some members of which expressed displeasure from their seats. Following, a clergyman accused the council majority of resorting to "a lot of rhetoric" to reject a positive proposal form "A multi ethnic group of young people."

Harambe is seeking $3,250 in "seed" money from the city, and has leased quarters at 1186 Broadway with the intention of filling an asserted gap of medical, dental and preventative health care needs. Its sponsor is the western regional office of the medical committee for human rights in Oakland.

After turning down the request August 26, the council agreed to reconsider it. Before them last night was a memorandum from city manager Milton R. Farrell who recommended that the city cooperate with Harambe's aims but deny the second request for funds.

In effect, the memo urged that Harambe confine itself immediately to "walk-in and telephone referral service and a program of transportation assistance to poor people, of a non-emergency nature," and that the county be encouraged to provide immunization and well-baby clinics and prenatal care, among other services, in Seaside, possibly at the Harambe clinic.

A survey to determine the need for a branch county medical facility in Seaside urged that Harambe avoid duplication with other private and public organizations and concluded:

"The city council should not approve the request for financial assistance. The city of Seaside has a serious financial problem this year, and our taxpayers are currently paying for health, hospital and medical services.

Mayor Louis N. Haddad declared, "I don't see much choice for the city than to turn down the request for funds," after agreeing to do what he could to get the survey going.

Claude Ames, a spokesman for Harambe, complained that the study of its proposal was conducted without any consultation of the clinic staff. After a brief debate, the mayor chided Ames for "trying to pin me down."

"This is so serious," Ames replied, "that I have to pin you down."

"We're broke--we've raised taxes 25 percent in the past two years," Haddad concluded.

Councilman Stephen E. Ross and Glen Olea, who voted for the request three weeks earlier, restated their support, declaring that the amount asked was modified and the objective worthwhile.

Before the vote was taken, Joseph Cota said the city lacked "surplus money" to put into the program but said he'd look into it further "if you do it in a more professional manner."

Later in the meeting, Rev. Allen A. Belton walked to the microphone saying, "This is one of the few times since I've been in Seaside that a group of young people presented a positive proposal, and you gentlemen very nicely turned it down with a lot of rhetoric."

Mr. Belton suggested that even a token donation of $50 would have been significant.

Also overlooked, he said, were the donation of time by some 15 physicians to the clinic, the difficulties faced by people without private transportation in getting to health department facilities at 1200 Aguajito Road, Monterey and lack of awareness by some that such facilities even exist.

Mr. Belton suggested that the council had been playing "middle class games" with the audience and that time for game playing was over. "For the first time, a multi-ethnic group got together and proposed something positive," he said, to heavy applause that persisted over Mayor Haddad's gavel.

As the mayor gaveled the meeting to adjournment over protests from the audience, someone shouted, "Now we know what it's all about."

New Rates

Pacific Telephone's new "Forty-Niner" long-distance rates are now in effect in Monterey.

Don Boston, Pacific Telephone manager, said the budger-cutting "Forty-Niner" rate allows Monterey telephone subscribers to direct-dial anywhere in California for only 49 cents (or less) for the first thee minutes between 11 p.m. and 8 a.m. daily and from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m., Sunday and holidays.

The new low rate is in effect throughout California.

Tonight

Mothers and Others For Peace will hold their monthly meeting tonight (Thursday) at 8 p.m. in the Community Room of the Monterey Public Library.

Need Blood September 30

The American Red Cross Bloodmobile will be at the Seaside Fire Department Thursday, September 30 between 2:30 and 6 p.m.

According to Leo Woicekowski, coordinator for this blood drive, a critical shortage of blood exists at this time and donors are urgently needed.

Woicekowski points out that there are several benefits for those persons who donate blood. Probably the most important being that if a donor gives one pint of blood a year he and his entire family will receive blood free if the need ever arises during that year.

Also, blood donors remain anonymous so no one ever knows who gives blood or who receives it. Also in some cases preliminary tests of blood has resulted in the donor's own life being saved.

Such tests may reveal that the donor has a disease or condition that he himself is unaware of.

Woicekowski also added that a person may donate blood to a certain group and still be eligible for blood if the need ever arises.

Property Taxes Not Releived

The recent State Supreme Court's decision on the constitutionality of California's public school financing system does not relieve any taxpayer of his obligation for paying his 1971-72 property taxes on time, in the view of the State Board of Equalization.

This opinion was expressed by Board Member George R. Reilly of San Francisco, in response to recent questioning by taxpayers as to whether the State Supreme Court decision, which ruled that the public school financing system of California is unconstitutional, excuses taxpayers from paying any part of their 1971-72 property taxes.

The first installment of 1971-72 property taxes will become delinquent December 10, 1971.

Reilly pointed out that the Supreme Court decision of August 30 did not involve the granting of an injunction against the collection of taxes or any final order respecting any taxpayer's obligation to pay his property taxes.

The Supreme Court's action was to send the case back to the Superior Court of Los Angeles County for trial.

Rehearsal Is Monday

The first rehearsal of the newly-formed Central Coast Youth Symphony will be held from 7 until 9 p.m. this Monday, September 27, in the band room at Fremont Junior High School, 1600 Kimball Avenue, Seaside.

The orchestra is open to all orchestral instrumentalists from 13 through 22 years of age. Any musician wishing to play is urged to join at this rehearsal.

Additional information may be obtained by calling Robert S. Holman at 375-7426 after 5 p.m. daily or any time on Saturday or Sunday.

Registration Is Now Open

Registration deadline for fall classes of the Seaside Parks and Recreation Department will begin Monday at the youth center. It has been extended through Friday.

Signups will be accepted Monday through Friday at city hall or the youth center from 10 a.m. to noon and from 7 to 8 p.m. Monday and Tuesday.

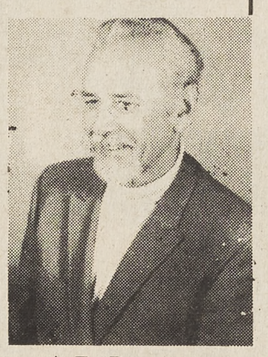
More information may be obtained by calling 394-8531. Extensions 28 or 58.

Morning classes 9:30 - 11:30 a.m., corresponding with "tot time" activities, will include women's exercises Mondays and Wednesdays, Macrame Tuesdays, interior decorating Thursdays and watercoloring Fridays.

Publisher's Report

Seaside Ripples

A. E. "Andy" Barragan, Publisher



A.E. Barragan

It's probably easier to get out into the summer heat wave and mow the lawn than to try to sit down at a cold typewriter and conjure up an original thought when the weather outside is in the 90's and the cool waves from the nearby beaches beckon. We did have an opportunity during the heat wave to get to the beach a couple of times. My wife, Jeannie and I drove over the hill to Carmel Beach on one of those hot days and the sand, for the first time in a long while, was too hot to walk on without either shoes or the barefeet of a seventeen year old. The heat doesn't seem to bother them in their quest for love and romance. How in the dickens they can stay in that ice-cold water over there in the ocean at Carmel baffles all of us old guys who have to be content to lay in the hot sun and ogle the beautiful young things in short and revealing bikinis. You know, though, that we would much rather be out in the water riding the waves like we used to when we were seventeen.

We also had the chance to sneak up to Seacliff Beach (that's where my brother has the restaurant called the "Cook Book") one late afternoon and we were pleasantly surprised that the water was at least 10 degrees warmer than Carmel's and here you could stand it for at least five minutes before freezing. But again there were hundreds of those darn kids running in and out of the water just as if it were lukewarm while I gasped for air on every wave. Ah, youth! But then they don't have half of the fun that I do girl-watching, so that makes us even.

Funds Needed To Combat Disease

Volunteers are needed to help give the breath of life to millions of children suffering form serious, chronic lung diseases.

They are needed for the annual fund-raising drive of the Monterey County Unit of the National Cystic Fibrosis Research Foundation, according to Mrs. Diane Michael, chairman of the drive.

"We need more volunteers than ever before," Mrs. Michael explained. "We must find a control for the inherited disease of cystic fibrosis, but we must also help as many of the more than five million children with chronic lung diseases as possible.

"Diagnosis and therapy are available at 116 Cystic Fibrosis Centers throughout the contry where as many as six out of seven children are found to have other diseases whose symptoms closely resemble those of Cystic Fibrosis. There are ten California centers which are not only helping children with cystic fibrosis but those with chronic bronchitis, asthmatic bronchitis, asthma with lung damage, the condition sometimes called childhood emlhysema, bronchiectasis and related lung and intestinal diseases as well.

"The broader the program, the greater the need for funds and more volunteers to raise them. Anyone willing to devote some time--a few hours, a few days--may choose from a variety of campaign activities. And they'll earn the gratitude of thousands of parents and children who know what it means to struggle for the breath of life."

Volunteers are asked to call the Foundation at 384-9765.

Deadline Is Nearing For Seniors

Only 48,000 California homeowners over 65 years of age have filed 1971 claims for a reimbursement of their 1970-71 property taxes under California's Senior Citizens Property Tax Assistance Law, according to Martin Huff, Executive Officer of the Franchise Tax Board.

Huff said the claims must be filed before October 15 to be valid. The law provides for up to 95 percent reimbursement of property taxes, depending upon the individual's income.

To be eligible for senior citizens property tax assistance, claimants must be over 65 years of age as of January 1, 1971; must own and occupy their own home; must have paid the property taxes on the home; and must have a total household income of less than $3,350.

Qualified homeowners can obtain forms from any office of the Franchise Tax Board or by writing to Senior Citizens Property Tax Assistance, P.O. Box 1588, Sacramento, CA 95807.

Still Time To Register

There is still time to enroll in the many general education or vocational classes now being offered by the adult division of the Monterey Peninsula Unified School District.

For those who wish to earn credit toward a high school diploma, the Monterey Adult School office should be contacted immediately.

Telephone 649-7386 or 648-7188, or come to the adult office at either Monterey or Seaside High School between the hours of 6:30 and 9:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

REUNION BANQUET

Entertainer Martha Raye, whose versatility has prompted Bob Hope to say, "When you've got Martha, you don't need anything else," performed for the soldiers and guests gathered for the annual Special Forces reunion at the Fort Ord NCO Club Monday night, September 6. Miss Raye, who has entertained at military installations worldwide and is a lieutenant colonel in the Army Nurse Corps, wore her Special Forces uniform, complete with green Beret.

Prior to the Reunion Dinner, Miss Raye spent the afternoon touring the Fort Ord hospital.

A highlight of the dinner was the presentation of a special trophy inscribed to "Our Wonderful Maggie." Accepting the trophy, Miss Raye thanked them, saying, "I'm so rich with your love and your greatness. May God bless you."

Following the dinner, Miss Raye was made an Honorary member of the Non-Commissioned Officers Association by Sergeant Major Marvin Compton, Chairman of the Monterey Peninsula Chapter of the Association.

After dinner she performed for the audience, which included Fort Ord's commanding general, Major General H.G. Moore and Mrs. Moore.

CHORAL SOCIETY WANTS SINGERS

Registration for singers interested in performing with the Monterey Peninsula Choral Society will be held open for the next few weeks. Rehearsals are held Wednesday evenings, 7 to 10 p.m. at Fremont Junior High School, Kimball Avenue.

The conductor and music director, Haymo Taeuber, is also the conductor of the Monterey County Symphony. He has planned an exciting season of major choral works. The first program of the season will be the Christmas concerts, December 11 and 12 at Carmel Mission Basilica. The Chorus will also sing on Palm Sunday at the U. S. Naval Postgraduate School's King Hall and as guest artists in the Symphony Concert series in May.

CREATIVE STITCHERY CLASSES

A class in creative stitchery is starting Thursday from 2 to 4:30 p.m. in the Art Department of the Fort Ord Arts and Crafts Shop, Building 2250. The class is open to all military personnel and dependents free of charge.

The instructor is Mrs. Jean Hofsas, who makes her home in Pacific Grove. She approaches stitchery as a basic art, using no fixed pattern and making it a truly creative and decorative art creation. She also conducts classes for children and adults in stitchery at the Monterey Museum of Art. Mrs. Hofsas will also initiate a new class in "On Location" drawing and sketching in secnic spots in this picturesque and historical area.

POPULAR DANCE ACT

The Pam Hicks Lei Aloho Dancers, a popular dance act from Santa Clara, presented a varied dance show at Service Club One recently. The show featured Hawaiian and Polynesian Dance Numbers. Also on the agenda were such numbers as black light, tap and some acrobatic routines. The program was free to all military personnel and their dependents and guests.

Armed Forces Get Pastor

Rev. Robert E. Bendick

Rev. Robert E. Bendick, Pastor of Faith Lutheran Church of Seaside, has accepted the call of the Armed Forces Commission of the Lutheran Church -Missouri Synod to go on active duty as a Chaplain in the United States Army.

A Commissioning Service for Pastor Bendick's entrance into the military Chaplaincy will be held at Faith Lutheran on Friday, Sept. 24 at 7:30 p.m. Rev. Walter Grumm of Monterey will be the liturgist for the service. Rev. Robert Fickensher of Novato, Calif., will be the speaker. Local clergy and chaplains will also take part in the Commissioning Rite.

While serving as Pastor of the local congregation for the past three years, he has also served as the Chaplain of the 1st Bn., 149th Armor, CAL ARNG, headquartered in Salinas. He was recently selected as one of "1971's Outstanding Young Men in America."

A native of Allen Park, Mich., he was assigned to a mission congregation, Trinity Lutheran Church of Wasco upon his graduation from Concordia Seminary, St. Louis, Mo. in 1965. After three years in Wasco he accepted the call to Seaside. He and his wife, Judi, have two children, Brent and Kari.

Pastor Bendick was commissioned as a 2 Lt., Staff Specialist, while attending Seminary in 1962. He was appointed a Chaplain in the USAR in 1965. He has served various Reserve and National Guard units in Missouri, Colorado, and California as Chaplain.

The initial assignment for Chaplain Bendick will be the Quartermaster Center, Ft. Lee, Virginia.

Adult Crafts Class Has Openings

Registration is still open for the crafts class now being offered at Seaside High School on Tuesday and Thursday evenings, 7 to 9:30 p.m. This course is offered by the adult education division of the Monterey Peninsula Unified School District.

Professional, as well as amateur, craftsmen are invited to utilize the outstanding production facilities at Seaside High School under the direction of John Nightengale, Professional Craftsmen of America, who will be available to give instruction and assistance in a variety of crafts media such as jewelry, leather, ceramics, metal sculpture and weaving.

Registration fee is $3, plus lab fee. Interested persons may contact either Seaside High School adult office or Monterey High School adult office between 6:30 - 9:30 p.m. Monday through Thursday evenings. Telephones: 649-7188 or 649-7386.

WINTER DRIVING TIP

When driving in mountain country this winter, advises the National Automobile Club, always carry chains in the trunk of your car for use during severe snow and ice conditions.

Seasiders Join Army

Five men from the Seaside area volunteered for enlistment with the United States Army during August.

Larry W. Stephens of Fort Ord enlisted for training in the Wire Maintenance Field and after Basic Training will be assigned to receive training in that field.

Bryce J. Orgis, also of Fort Ord, enlisted for training in the Aircraft Maintenance Field.

The other enlistees were prior servicemen returning to Army green.

Salvador R. Mamon Jr. of Seaside and Bobby E. Bonds of Marina each will collect $10,000 relistment bonus. Sergeant Mamon has been assigned with Special Forces in Vietnam and Sergeant Bonds has been assigned to Fort Ord.

Pedro Totaan, Jr., also a Seaside resident, re-enlisted and has been assigned to Fort Carson, Colorado for duty as an Artillery Sergeant with the Fourth Infantry Division.

All former Army men interested in the 30-month program that allows qualified persons to re-enlist in the Army without a loss in grade are asked to call 372-4742 or stop by 431 Webster Street in Monterey and talk with Sergeant Jose Garcia, the local recruiter.

Army Seeks Radio Trainees

The United States Army is looking for young men who are interested in training as radio relay and carrier operations specialists.

To apply, a volunteer needs good hearing, some talent for electronics, must like to work with his hands and have good eyesight for close work. He also must pass certain skill tests.

The Army conducts a spedial 12 week course in radio relay systems at Fort Gordon, Georgia.

Once enrolled, the radio relay specialist learns about basic carrier telephone and telegraph systems. He operates very high frequency radio systems. He installs, operates and performs maintenance on relay equipment. He tunes receivers and transmitters, checks their alignment and maintains contact with distant radio stations.

A young man can enlist for this specialty and be guaranteed in writing that the Army will give him the necessary training.

Further information on this and the more than 300 job training opportunities available in the U.S. Army can be furnished by Sergeant Jose Garcia, local Army recruiter at 431 Webster Street in Monterey, or call him at 372-4742.

History Plan Is Beginning

State Parks and Recreation Director William Penn Mott, Jr. announced that the California History Plan is now being prepared and that contributions to the plan by local governments, historical societies, or individuals are invited.

Mott explained that in accordance with the National Historic Preservation Act of 1966, the plan will be submitted to the National Park Service in Washington D. C. for acceptance and subsequent funding of state and local historical preservation projects. "We expect that approximately $6 million in federal grants will be available nationally for these projects," Mott said.

When completed, the plan will include a survey and a classification system for historical and archeological sites in California, and will recommend priorities and standards for the preservation of these resources.

Those interested in information about the program may contact the California History Plan, State Department of Parks and Recreation, P. O. Box 2390, Sacramento 95811. Telephone (916) 445 - 4441.

Pavement

The California Division of Highways is calling for bids on improvement projects on state routes in Monterey County.

Under the Monterey County project, wet-weather driving on a portion of the Pacific Grove-Carmel Road (Route 68) will become safer through application of a blanket of coarse asphaltic concrete, increasing tire-pavement friction.

Work limits are from 0.4 mile north to 0.2 mile south of Scenic Drive overcrossing No. 1, near Monterey.

In addition to having several reverse curves, this 0.6 mile section of highway has a seven-percent downgrade for westbound traffic. The coarse surfacing will reduce driving hazards presented by these conditions.

A total of $13,000 is available for the project, on which bids will be opened October 6 in Sacramento.

ISLAND DISCOVERER

Twenty-two miles off the coast of southern California Juan Rodriguez Cabrillo discovered Catalina Island in 1542.

Church Services

Reality needs to be faced up to, not escaped from, according to the Lesson-Sermon to be heard at Christian Science church services this Sunday.

"Let us learn of the real and eternal and prepare for the reign of Spirit, the kingdom of heaven,--the reign and rule of universal harmony, which cannot be lost nor remain forever unseen," a citation to be read from "Science and Heakth with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy states.

The Golden Text is taken from the Apostle Paul's letter to the Galatians: "The fruit of the Spirit is love, joy, peace, longsuffering, gentleness, goodness, faith, meekness, temperance."

All are welcome at First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Monterey. The service begins at 10:30 a.m.

Girls Return From Boston Conference

Debra and Melanie Bassett of Seaside returned recently from a three-day Biennial College Organization meeting held at The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts.

They were among 18 students from Monterey Peninsula who attended the meeting and who reported to a large audience of members and friends who attend Christian Science churches on the Peninsula.

They reported that 5,000 college students from more than 31 countries heard it emphasized that a deeper commitment to truth is demanded of all who would help mankind.

The keynote speaker, Carl Wilz of San Francisco, well-known Editor of The Christian Science Journal and Christian Science Sentinel, said: "The truth of God and man is a tremendous force, and irresistible power. Human life is not to be escaped but to be understood. It is the obligation of anyone who knows of this truth to do all in his power to awaken mankind to their capacities as ideas of God to solve their problems intelligently."

Debra had the opportunity of introducing Erwin D. Canham, Editor-in-Chief of The Christian Science Monitor to the to the huge Boston assembly. She also told of activities of the Christian Science Organization at U.C. Santa Barbara, of which she was president this past year. The group was called upon to keep peace on campus at critical times by presenting constructive alternatives.

Hundreds of students described how they applied their spiritual understanding to a wide varity of problems which they face in daily life on campus and in their relationships with fellow students and surrounding community.

Officers Are Elected

In a recent meeting the Lobo Club of Monterey elected its officer and board members for the 1971-72 season. The Lobo Club is the booster club for the Monterey Peninsula College athletic teams.

The officers will be: Bill K. House, President; Eddie Esteban, Vice President; Lee Lamb, Secretary Treasurer; Mno Russo (Past President), Advisory Director. The incoming slate of board members: Bricky Crivallo, Bill Seawell (Past President), Phil Santora, W. C. Stowers, Joe Guerra, Brad Conger and Phil Anastasia. We are pleased to welcome new board members Mr. Stan Segali and Mr. Bob Massaro.

The first general meeting will be held at the Elk's Club in Monterey at 7:30 Wednesday evening, September 8. This is a change in date from that previously announced because of a conflict with a televised professional football game.

All former members please bring your membership cards which you have received in the mail so that you may be assigned your regular reserved seats. The reserved seats will be guaranteed only during the meeting of September 8 and September 16.

Additional information regarding tickets may be obtained from Vice President Eddie Esteban, at 375-9478.

Publicist Is Named

Ray Harden, President of the Monterey County Unit of the National Cystic Fibrosis Research Foundation, has named Mrs. Joan White of San Ardo as publicity chairman of the 1971 Breath of Life campaign.

With the theme, "Never take breathing for granted," the drive will emphasize the rising interest in genetic diseases and the possibility of preventing or controlling genetic defects through laboratory and clinical methods.

Cystic fibrosis is inherited when both parents have a biochemical defect, and thus far there is no cure.

Four Youths Join Navy

Four area youths, two from Marina and two from Seaside, have enlisted in the U. S. Navy and are presently undergoing basic training at San Diego.

The two Navymen from Marina are Miguel Rosado of 3024 Sunrise Street and David L. Stillwagon of 3200 Susan Avenue. After basic training, Rosado will be assigned to duty for on-the-job training and David Stillwagon will attend the Navy's Hospital Corpsman in San Diego.

Representing Seaside are Ismael P. Mosqueda of 1857 Lincoln Street and David G. Johnson from 1705 Laguna Street. Upon completion of basic training, Ismael Mosqueda will be assigned to about two years of technical training under the Navy's Advanced Electronics Training Program. David Johnson will attend a class "A" school for training in the Navy's Avaition field.

Telethon Is Success

Jerry Lewis' Telethon '71 raised $8,146,000 in pledges and contributions for Muscular Dystrophy Associations of America over Labor Day Weekend. His sixth annual 20-hour program was seen on over 100 television stations on a national hook-up created especially for his program.

Among nationally famous entertainers seen were: Don Adams, Paul Anka, Sidney Blackmer, Linda Bennett, Frank Brents, Julie Budd, Lew Burke and Buddy and Charlie Callas, Maria Callas, Johnny Carson, June Carter, The Carter Family, Johnny Cash, Jean Pierre Cassel, James Coco, Dorothy Collins, Joan Drawford, Dr. Michael DeBakey, Sammy Davis, Jr., Yvonne De Carlo, The Devonnes, Fifi D'Orsay, Mike Douglas, Hugh Downs, The Emerald Society Bagpipers of the Fire Department, The Fifth Dimension, Connie Francis, Bonnie Franklin, Walt Frasier, Joe Frazier, and the Knockouts, Kelly Garrett, John Gary, Bobby Goldsboro, Rocky Graziano, Vic Hadfield, David Hartman, Hildegarde, Ron Holgate, Joey Heatherton, Thelma Houston, Mr. Jiggs, Van Johnson, Tina Kaplan, B. B. King, Werner Klemperer, Peter Lemongello, Buzzy Linhart, Magid Triplets, Tony Martin, Bob McAllister, Ed McMahon, Marilyn Michaels, Jose Molina, Gussie Moran, Joe Namath, Bob Newhart, Helen O'Connell, Johnnie Olsen, Jack Palance, Minnie Pearl, Carl Perkins, Dominique Perrin, Lloyd Price, Oral Roberts, Buddy Rich, Singing Cedars, Ray Stevens, Tennessee Three, Donna Theodore, Tiny Tim, Bobby Van, Sara Vaughan, Gwen Verdon, Shirley Verrett, The Voices of East Harlem, Shani Wallis, Roy White and Your Father's Moustache.

Local cut-ins on the national program, which originated in New York City featured Oakland Raiders Ben Davidson, Mayor Norman Mineta of San Jose, Dewey King, football coach San Jose State, Dave Chancy and sportsman Tom Culligan, Jr.

In his six years of Telethon fund raisers, Lewis has steadily increased amounts donated by viewers who telephone in their contributions to volunteer operators manning batteries of phones.

Last year a total of %5,093,385 was pledged. A remarkable 97.9 percent was actually collected.

Telethon receipts are used for grants to 100 worldwide reserach projects seeking the still-elusive cure for this currently hopeless disease.

Those who still wish to contribute may send their gifts to the local MDAA office at 1140 Pedro Street, Room 7, San Jose, CA 95126.

What I'm leading up to is the fact that I believe that we have the most perfect weather in the world here on the peninsula. San Francisco had it at 103; Oakland at 109; the entire San Francisco peninsula, including San Jose, was over 105 and I talked to people in Berkeley who told me that it didn't cool off at night like it usually does. Los Angeles, of course, had it real bad too, but then it's bad down there even on good days with all of that smog. I won't even mention the weather in the great central valleys since its always over 100 every summer there. My friends come down and visit on those hot days from Sacramento and Fresno in their brief shorts and when they get here they nearly freeze to death and wonder how we ever can stand the cold here. I love it. They can have the valley, the city and, yes the moutains. I'll stay right here.

Now you see what I meant about trying to write a meaningful column on a hot day. Better I should have gone to the beach and sent in Kahlil Gibran as a pinch hitter. I have had to direct some serious thinking this week to my daughter's upcoming wedding next week. My most perplexing decision is whether or not I should buy a new necktie. And then again, they may make me wear just a shirt and slacks since the wedding is being held outdoors in the Redwoods. Well, maybe I haven't had to make any serious decision but you should see Jeannie. Talk about hysteria. Order the wedding cake, order the dinner for the after-wedding reception, get a bridal gown for daughter (she finally got her own) get a gown for mother (Jeannie that is), have to have it shortened. Oh yes, don't forget to order the flowers. What about all of the invitations? Are the groom's parents going to be able to make it from Connecticut? Will they want to stay at the house with us or should we order then a motel room. Will grandma be able to be here with grandpa from Denver? What is son Bob going to wear? Should we buy him a new jacket? What about the music for the wedding? Who is going to pick up the preacher? No wonder my poor wife is hysterical. Then to top it all off, one day last week, Jeannie got a call from her daughter (the one that's getting married) crying over the phone that we will have to call the wedding off. Paul, (that's the prospective groom) can't get the day off. He's in the Army at the Presidio (a medical corpsman) and his sergeant had given him duty that day. Now, hysterical wife turns into a mad tiger. Who says her prospective son-in-law can't get the day off to marry her daughter? She tells tearful daughter to have him see the Chaplain and if that doesn't work see his company commander and if that doesn't get him off to see the base commander and, if all of that doesn't work, she'll have her father call a Congressman friend of his and we'll darn well see if Paul has to work on his wedding day. While all of this was going on the other day, Sgt. Garcia of the U.S. Army Recruiting Service walked into the office. He inquired of my dear wife as to why she was so distraught. What she told Sgt. Garcia about the whole United States Army I can't print, but you can be sure it was plenty. Very calmly, Sgt. Garcia sat down and simply asked a few simple questions. What is the young man's name and serial number? Where is he stationed? What is his rank? She didn't know number, but she knew his name and rank and where he was stationed. That is all that Sgt. Garcia wanted to know and he calmly walked out and said goodby. Now, I don't know what took place in the next two hours that day, but I do know for sure that my daughter called her mother from San Francisco two hours later and told her that Paul (prospective groom) had been given the day off.

So my moral for today is - don't get so uptight about the Army and the Recruiting service. They're only doing their job.

Questions&Answers

Q -- Some of the services have a six months actice duty training program, followed by so many years of weekly drills. Are these people eligible for educational assistance under the GI Bill?

A -- No. This is a six-months-active duty-program-for-training enlistment in the reserves or National Guard and is specifically excepted from the definition of active duty for GI Bill purposes.

Q -- I have remarried, and my present husband has adopted my daughter. Since her father died from injuries sustained in World War II, is she entitled to training under the War Orphans Assistance Program?

A -- Yes. Her eligibility is based on the fact that her parent died from service-connected cuases. Subsequent adoption does not affect this original eligibility.

Q -- Several years ago my "old law" pension was terminated because may annual income exceeded $1,600. I understand that the income limitation for a single veteran has been increased to $1,900. Can I be reinstated under the "old law," since my income is now within this limit?

A -- Yes. A change in the law which became effective on January, 1, 1971 increased the income limit to $1,900. any veteran whose pension was terminated after July 1, 1960, because of excessive income may now requalify under the new income limit, provided he has not elected to receive "new law" pension.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Mr. Mayor:

Sometime ago, I mentioned to you that I had an idea about the development of Roberts Lake and Laguna Grande Lake that would be of benefit to the city...

My idea was to have the city develop this area into an overnight parking area for campers and trailers...

The reason for this is that the whole Monterey Peninsula is based on tourism for the bulk of it's economy, and that tourists come to this area in recreation vehicles and find no place to park overnight . . .

Such a place would be self supporting. In addition, it would make money for the City and provide employment for the persons needed to operate and manage it. . .

If you will just take a good hard look at the number of visitors to the area that arrive here in motor homes, campers and trailers, I am sure you will agree that this plan has merit...

Construction of such a facility would cost far less than any other plan I have heard of so far; certainly less than a motel or other type business...It should include parking spaces for as many vehicles as the area can accomodate, complete with parking slab, hook-ups, table etc...The area itself could contain a small store with the necessary items vacationers usually need; As a concession, a small but nice coffee shop could be placed inside the enclosure (or at least next to it).

As for employment; A full time manager would be required, plus day and night attendants; clean up men; maintenance men, etc...

I am enclosing an article from the Herald of August 26, 1971, which actually will prove that such an idea is a practical one... Note the income Monterey has derived from this park, and without any additional expense to the city.

As for the preservation of Roberts Lake, which I am heartily in agreement with, this plan would preserve the natural beauty of the lake and the wildlife as well...

I would like this plan to receive serious consideration, and I would like to hear from other people that are interested in this idea.

L.C. Deane
1790 Ord Grove Avenue

EDITOR'S NOTE: The writer of the above sent his letter direct to the Mayor and we are glad to reproduce it per his request.

Editor: I would like to suggest a tax reform bill that would be fair to everyone. This is a tax reform bill that would cancel all real property taxes, all personal property taxes, business inventory taxes, state income taxes, bank taxes, franchise taxes, corporation taxes and all other state, county and city taxes.

In place of these taxes I suggest the adoption of a 10 percent transaction tax with no exemptions.

This 10 percent transaction tax would raise approximately $25 to $50 billion a year in revenue here in California.

It would be a fair tax. If you received $10,000 in a year, you would pay $100 tax, while your neighbor, if he received $50,000, would pay $500 tax.

A 10 percent transaction tax would bring in enough revenue so that the state, counties and cities could build new schools, roads, streets and hospitals.

I believe that with this type of tax unemployment would be a thing of the past in California. State, county and city employees would get a raise in salary and needy welfare people would get more money.

I also believe that every man and woman in this great state should feel it an honor to pay his or her fair share of taxes.

Editor: As one who has supported morally and, in a modest way, financially, the Young Adults For Action, I too am highly upset, as is our good friend Lee Toler, by the un just and blistering criticism of the fine constructive work these dedicated neighbors of ours are performing.

This criticism is a result of the arrest of YAFA Program Administrator Jimmy Roy. His arrest in no way should jeapordize the programs of YAFA.

There is no more cruel accusation than guilt by association. And lest we forget -- a man is innocent until proven guilty.

Your Social Security

Q.: As a divorced wife, can I get benefits on my ex-husband's record if he dies?

A.: If you have not remarried (or you remarried but that marriage, too, has ended) and if you meet certain support requirements, you can get benefits when: 1. You have in your care a child who is under 18 (or disabled) who is entitled to benefits on the record of your deceased ex-husband; or 2. You are 60 or older and were married to your ex-husband for at least 20 years; or 3. You are between 50 and 60 and extremely disabled.

Q.- Where does the money come from to pay for all of the different types of social security benefits?

A.- During working years, employees, their employers, and self-employed people contribute to special social security trust funds. Money is then available so that cash benefits can be paid from these funds to replace part of the earnings and individual or a family loses when the worker retires, becomes disabled, or dies.

As I See It

By Mel Vercoe

Joe McGillicutty walked slowly through the weeds of the abandoned railroad track. A seagull swooped in from the bay and landed feet-first on the bird-whitened roof of an un-used warehouse.

Stopping to lace his shoe, Joe sat on the cold steel rail and looked up at the warehouse and on down the track toward the factory where he has spent so many hours at a lathe. Those were the days - the good old days - the days before the Russians dropped the Peace Bomb.

It was so unexpected the damage was undescribable. If only there had been some warning - even a week or a month, but there was none - just that awesome announcement suddenly being broadcast over the radio that the Russians were no longer building up their stocks of war supplies.

As Joe got up and continued his way along the track, he thought of the events that followed that terrible news. Sixteen high-ranking Defence Department officials had become so confused and frustrated they has leaded to their deaths from the Pentagon roof. Five pro-war Senators and fifty-six pro-war Representatives had resigned in angry disgust. The last stock broker to leave the New York Stock Exchange set fire to the building before he took a taxi back to Texas, and twenty-four contestants in the Miss Universe contest couldn't find their managers and had to hitch-hike home all the way from Miami Beach.

Yes, those were the good old days. Every Friday night Joe used to cash his paycheck at Clancy's Bar and Grill and have two beers with the boys before going home to Clara. Now there weren't any more paydays. The Pentagon didn't need any more shell casings, there wasn't enough tax revenue from the industries that were not affected to pay the Pentagon gas bill, so they had closed it down, and last week Clara had left him a "Dear Joe" letter and had eloped with a fellow who had a nice job working as a janitor for a welfare agency.

Joe had missed her at first until his hands got used to the soap he was using on the dishes. Now, as he left the track and headed across deserted streets toward the empty bank where he lived, Joe wondered if things would ever get back to normal again. How long would it be until some frightened Congressman summoned the courage to suggest that we raise taxes to buy enough equipment to get another war started? How long would it be until the silent majority got fed up with the serenity and unemployment of peace and rose up en masse and demanded we be allowed to exercise our cherised right to have two wars in progress and one just starting for each generation of our offspring to take part in?

Yes, those were the good old days. What a dirty, low blow those Russians pulled-getting the Chinese out of the picture with ten of their biggest bombs and then yanking the pins out from under our economy with that terrible Peace Bomb. Joe wondered if the Russians were all on welfare, too. Well, one thing you could say for it - it was better than being up in the sky in the dust with the Chinese.

Thoughts On Our Lives

What counts is not formal trappings or dogmas of the church so much as it is the sacredness of life itself and how we live it.

Bob Wood Reports

Our mail from constituents in Monterey County runs on the average from between a dozen to as high as forty letters a day and most of them petain to tax reform, school finance, crime, welfare and almost every tupe of problem imaginable. I can't help but notice that many letters these last few days indicate that the matter of reapportionment of our State Senate, Assembly and Congressional Distrists is the least understood. I can understand this myself because I was never too interested until after I found myself in the Legislature. Now that I am in Sacramento, I can see what an important issue this one is.

Possibly one reason that many of us are not too acquainted with the meaning of reapportionment is the fact that reapportionment is considered by the Legislature only once every ten years. All district lines of our representatives must be reapportioned on a one-man, one-vote basis as equally as possible. This means that every district must have almost exactly the same number of people as the others. Naturally, present districts must be realigned by the Legislature this year as a result of population shifts which have occured during the past decade.

When reapportionment partisan politics comes into play, the majority party in power has the votes to strengthen their majority in the Legislature at the expense of the minority party. In 1951, the Republicans did it; in 1961 and 1965 the Democrats did it. Today, the Democrats have a majority in the Legislature and they will probably draw up a reapportionment bill which will favor their party and they have the votes to pass the bill.

They are hampered, however, by the fact that the bill could be vetoed by a Republican Governor if he thinks the measure is unfair to the Republicans.

As mahy of you know the Republicans came out with a reapportionment map here last week. Although they should be commended for bringing the issue out in the open, some Republicans, including myself, were disappointed in the plan. The plan splits Monterey County down the middle and I felt it would be a detriment to our County regardless of who is representing Monterey County in the years to come, be that person Republican or Democrat.

The Democrats labeled the Republican plan as transparent gerrymandering. The author of the Republican plan said it was a fair, bi-partisan community oriented blueprint for political representation in the 1970's. It's going to be interesting to see what the Democrat reapportionment map is going to look like. It should be before the public within the next couple of weeks.

With all the arguing and battles that are going to take place, plus the fact we still have to come up with solutions to school finance and tax reform, I wouldn't be surprised that while Monterey shoppers are marking the days left 'til Christmas, we here in the California Legislature might possibly still be grappling with the problems left unresolved, problems which will have to be solved before the next Legislative year.

I'd just like to remind you that it's mighty easy to cut into buried cable. So if you're going to do any digging near where you think telephone cable may be buried on your property, please call our Repair Service first. (In the Monterey area the number is 611.) We can tell you the location of any cable buried near where you're planning to dig. That way you won't be taking a chance on depriving yourself or your neighbors of telephone service.

In case you ever happen to get a poor connection when you're making a long distance call, just hang up and call the Operator. She'll get you a good connection, and see that you're not charged for the words you couldn't hear. Our product is communications—clear, crisp communications—and we don't want you to pay for anything less.

This is a good time of year for boys interested in Boy Scouts or Cub Scouts to join up. The fall membership drive gives you a chance to help out too—as a sponsor, leader or recruiter. Watch for announcements of time and place in your area, or call your Boy Scouts of America office.

100-Year Old Cabin to Be Oak Shores Landmark

A 100-year-old homesteader's cabin at General Resource Development Corporation's multi-million dollar private family resort development on Lake Nacimiento, will be preserved as a museum piece.

Company president Harry L. Browne said the unique old homestead cabin was artfully put together by its original owners, Ernest and Mary Shuey, in the late 1800s, using wooden pegs for nails, and hand-hewn beams. It also has a deep, dark root cellar, the "coolest place in San Luis Obispo County."

"Root cellars are rare these days," said Browne, "and it would be a shame to destroy this historic landmark, the work of a pioneering couple who came to the Far West with a dream in their hearts."

The last resident of the homestead property was Mrs. Ella M. Adams, 95, of San Miguel, daughter of the Shueys.

The cabin stands under a large spreading oak tree. Its corrals have been restored and will be utilized as part of the Western Riding Club and stables that GRD will build.

Oak Shores property owners who also like to ride horseback over the many trails in the area will be able to rent or board horses there.

Although watersports-oriented to Lake Nacimiento, with its 165 miles of shoreline and 17 miles of open water.

The addition of the riding club stables to the sports agenda, gives the Oak Shores property owners another dimension in recreation, in this watersports - oriented development. Nearby Lake Nacimiento has 165 miles of shoreline and 17 miles of open water.

A two-story, 4,800 activity center is now under construction at Oak Shores near the resort's marina and boat-launching ramp. Property owners have free use of a campground while waiting to build their homes and cabins.

Meanwhile, GRD has opened its fourth increment of 296 waterfront and lake-view lots in the 3,000-acre development restricted to use by property owners only. Oak Shores is the only private development on the huge lake.

The company has sold out its first increment of 133 lots and 80 percent of the second and third increments, Browne revealed.

"This new increment are choice lots in a forest of pine and black oak trees," Browne said.

Deer, wild turkeys, quail, dove and feral goats frequent Oak Shores, a wildlife refuge where no hunting is allowed.

Lake Nacimiento is ideal for swimming, water-skiing and boating and fishing for scrappy largemouth bass, white bass, catfish, crappie and bluegill perch.

Oak Shores is located 25 miles west of Paso Robles over Nacimiento Lake Drive.

MUSEUM PIECE -- Built in early 1800's by pioneering couple, Ernest and Mary Shuey, this homesteader's cabin at Oak Shores at Lake Nacimiento, will be preserved as landmark for property owners in the multi-million dollar development, to enjoy. Oak Shores, located on the north shore of the huge lake, is 25 miles north of Paso Robles, the recreation hub of San Luis Obispo County.

See Site Where Gold Was First Discovered

It's easy to drive back along the trails of history in California. One authentic slice of the state's most colorful past is as near as a drive along Highway 49 to Coloma, says the California State Automobile Association.

This is the spot where the discovery of gold by James Marshall in 1848 sparked the rush that brought people from around the world. Coloma has some of the best remmants of the fabulous gold rush period of the Mother Lode and they have been restored and collected by the state of California and preserved in this historic park.

A good place to begin exploring this famous landmark is the spot where Marshall first discovered the precious metal while inspecting the work being done on the sawmill of John Sutter. The exact spot is on the bank of the south fork of the American River. Nearby towers a statue of Marshall pointing to the spot.

After Marshall told Sutter of his find, it took several months for the word to leak out, but by the spring of 1849 the big rush was on. Almost 20,000 frenzied gold-seekers converged on this region in the months that followed. Many came from as far away as Ohio, Pennsylvania and New York. Still others came from Europe and the Far East as the word spread around the world.

Near the Marshall monument is a replica of the sawmill which was completed in 1968. It is a working sawmall complete with a waterwheel so you can see just how the first mill operated.

There are a number of the original buildings still standing including a stone store used by the Chinese, the Episcopal Church, the cabin where Marshall lived for two years, the Bekeart store and several others.

The state-operated museum has some of the mining equipment used and interpretive displays showing the history of the gold mining activity at Coloma. Near the museum is a replica of the stamp mill and hydraulic equipment used in the mining operations.

Even today, over a century after it became famous, Coloma is a rich discovery for those who visit it.

VISITOR - Jack Wagner, author of "Gold Mines of California," stands at entrance to old Chinese store in Coloma, built after John Marshall's discovery of gold. (See Story)

Art Workshop Is Scheduled

The Monterey Peninsula Museum Of Art has announced the opening of a new Art Workshop series in painting, under the instruction of Virginia Sevier Rogers, a Bay-Area artist-teacher, recently moved to Carmel Valley.

The class will open September 20 and run through February 20. It will meet Mondays and Thursdays from 9:30 to 12:00 and 12:30 to 3:00.

The purpose of the class will be to develop the individual self-expression and technique, by introducting technique and media possibilities, and by evaluating each student according to his own tendencies and potentials in painting. Techniques such as collage, pallet-knife, graffito, empasto, oil-water resist, glazing and meno-print will be considered.

Time will be given to drawing techniques and the use of line in painting.

Advanced workshop demonstrations and lectures will be given at 10 in the morning.

In the afternoon there will be a special instruction period for beginners.

Students may work all day or any part of it.

Fee for the class is $40 a month.

FIVE TO ONE

Five quarts of milk are required to make each pound of Blue cheese, a cheese rich in calcium and phosphorus.

Participates

Navy Petty Officer Third Class Valente L. Sabado, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marcial Sabado of 1779 Highland St., Seaside, Calif., participated in the first night operation which simultaneously employed dual methods to refuel and resupply an underway aircraft carrier.

With the hazards of two ships steaming together at close refueling quarters intensified by South China Sea darkness, Sabado's ship, the nuclear powered attack aircraft carrier USS Enterprize, took fuel from the combat stores ship USS Sacramento by the familiar "highline" method.

He is a 1968 graduate of Monterey Peninsula College in Monterey.

Opens New Office

After meeting for two years at various places on the Peninsula, the YWCA will now hold most of its fall meetings at the USO on Estero and Webster Streets in Monterey.

However, Swimming for Mothers and children, and for adults will be offered in Seaside at the Meadowbrook Swim and Tennis Club, 1553 Kimble Street.

Drawing and painting will be offered through the courtesy of the Pacific Grove Art Center, 568 Lighthouse Avenue folk dancing will be at the New Monterey Neighborhood Center.

Classes to be offered at the USO building include Arts and Crafts for parents and children, bridge, candlemaking, cooking with a flair, english for the foreign born, guitar, income tax returns, knitting, modern ballet, jazz ballet, slimnastics, and Spanish, (elementary conversation).

Over in Carmel, there will be instructions in sewing and alterations, and (on Saturdays) sewing for teens.

Other fall activities of YWCA for members only), will include armchair travel talks, ecology begins with you, walk and talk gatherings, and benefit bridge parties.

Copies of the complete fall schedule may be obtained by telephoning 624-3506 or writing to the YWCA office, Box 2492, Carmel.

Grooving Around the Peninsula

with BETTY MANN

Hi there, fellow Peninsulans:

I'm back to grooving around the peninsula again. Before I do anything else I would like to thank all my dear readers who have said how much they missed my column. In the future I will write a column as time permits. Being a busy housewife and mother of four, as well as a college student, is quite a major challenge.

Speaking of college, the classes are quite groovy this year at MPC. My favorite class is Len Epstein's humanities class, which is really a "cool" thing in itself. The first night of class, fifty pople showed up for the session. This is an indication of how popular the class and the professor are. Try the class sometime. You will be letting yourself in on an interesting experience, while earning three units of credit. I promise you will never be bored! (Smiles)

Another interesting course I am taking this year is "American Government with a Black Perspective." It is being taught by a very straight-laced, interesting black man from the bay area. In this particular class a Seaside policeman is a student. I dig this. I wish more of our law enforcers would attend classes of this type. Perhaps they would learn more about what is happening in the black culture.

Speaking of law enforcement, I read an article in the Monterey Peninsula Herald's "opinion box" about our local district attorney taking the police out to breakfast to celebrate the big dope bust! The writer thought it was disgusting that such a thing was publicized. She wrote that she thought that "no person should gloat over such a thing, but should seek means and ways to correct this tragedy that is happening today." She also said that "Young Adults For Action is being condemned because one of its directors was arrested in the bust." She was outraged at this injustice. Believe me, I agree with her outspoken stand. Everyone knows the good feelings that YAFA HAS CREATED IN Seaside for the youths.

It was also interesting to read in the Herald that our mayor and city council were backing YAFA in this crisis. However, a short while later, the mayor's own clandestine local newspaper wrote a very derogotory article about the director of YAFA and two of its staff members being busted for drugs. And then, with tongue in cheek, the paper told about how the mayor had been instrumental in getting YAFA its grant!!!

I've heard through the grapevine that while the DA made such big headlines for the bust, many people are wondering why he arrested the small-time junkie and user of the stuff, while the "bigman" with the money, who buys and transports the drugs to the pushers is still loose and continues to thrive in his "business" from his mighty perch in Carmel and Big Sur. Many people think that is the person the DA should find and arrest. Then a gala celebration would be in order.

Did you know that while two security guards at Fort Ord were wlaking their beat recently they were robbed of their clothing and left standing in the early morning chill with nothing on but their underwear? Can you imagine how hard it was for these two guards to explain how they were placed in this unsightly situation? (Smiles)

I wonder what our mayor is thinking now that a reporter on the Herald gave the public the "poop" on our once "dedicated, indispensable, honest" city attorney--Saul Weingarten. I think that the ousted city council was trying to tell the public something while they were in office that is coming to light now that the horses have been let out of the stall!!!(Smiles)

Where It's At--Isn't it strange how the wealthy set their own standards? I found it quite amusing to read the big headlines across the society page of a famous bay area paper. It told of a well-past-middle-age, wealthy scion marrying his lady love. The couple have travelled the continent together, and then when they finally decided to get married, the newspaper tells of the famous people who came from different parts of the world for the wedding. Now I know why the younger generation speaks of the "Doublethink" standards and hangups of the older generation.

Until next week (I hope)
Cheerful Betty

AHH, RELIEF-- Mrs. A. Scott Goodfellow, (left), wife of Naval Postgraduate School Superintendent and Mrs. James F. Helt, Navy Relief volunteer, relax at superintendent's quarters during coffee and recent tea hosted by Mrs. Goodfellow. It was a pleasant relief from relief for large group of volunteers such as Mrs. Helt, wife of student Navy lieutneant, who was recognized for her 1,750 hours of work for volunteer organization.

Workshop Is at MPC

The 12-session decorating workshop, meeting from 7:30 to 10 p.m. Tuesdays, will be directed by Mrs. Belva Sanford, F.A.I.D. interior decorator from Carmel who has conducted a number of successful interior design workshops at the college in recent years. A complete studio of professional materials will be available for student use.

Beginning and advanced students may register for the workshop, for which a $25 fee, payable in advance at the MPC community services office, is being charged.

Look For Divine Light

By Arleen Pitlock

Ralph Waldo Emerson's great purpose in life was to awaken people to their potentialities, encouraging individuals to look up to themselves. He declared that in each of us there is a Divine Light that will shine out given a chance. It is easy to recognize the manifestation of this "Divine Light" in others, but it is often difficult to believe such a spiritual force exists in ourselves. We go along under our own power with what seems to be more than our share of failures and discouragement until we awaken to the fact that there are SPIRITUAL LAWS as well as NATURAL LAWS. . .laws that are as certain and impartial as gravity.

The study of laws and the principles of life has sometimes been referred to as "cold" and "impersonal". So is the law of Gravity. . . but aren't you glad its there!

Self-confidence is the full realization that a "Divine Light" is within you. . .not just in your friends! Once you wholeheartedly accept this Truth and depend upon it for the inspiration and abilities you need, you will discover that you have what it takes to do whatever it is you want to do. You will develop a quiet inner conviction that you are a channel through which SPIRITUAL as well as NATURAL laws are working and you are truly in "tune with the Infinite".

The spark of Divine Light within you is always lit. However, it is up to you to increase the amount of light as you increase your knowledge and understanding. With a fully lighted lamp in a room, the darkness disappears. With the full knowledge of Mind directed for you and by you, ignorance disappears from your consciousness and you are able to "let your light so shine that others may follow. . ."

BEER CONSUMPTION

In 1969, Californians consumed 11,149,024 barrels of beer, or 9.7 percent of the national total.

Army Offers Dental Training

The United States Army is offering guaranteed training in dental career fields to qualified enlistees, local Recruiting Officials announced today. The training is open to both men and women.

The two courses offered are the Dental Specialist Course and the Dental Laboratory Procedure Course, both taken by the enlistee at the Army Medical Field Service School, Fort Sam Houston, Texas, following eight weeks of basic training.

The Dental Specialist Course, lasting eight weeks, teaches dental assistance, operation and care of dental equipment and clinical and x-ray processes. Students also learn to identify and describe instruments and equipment, and to prepare instrument setups for various clinical procedures.

For more information about Army dental career fields or other Army courses, interested persons should contact Sergeant Jose Garcia at 431 Webster Street in Monterey or call him at 372-4742.

School's In, Be Cautious

Children will be heading back to school this month, many of them will be going for the first time. The California State Automobile Association urges motorists to use special caution near schools.

Although the School Safety Patrols, the police and adult guards do an excellent job in protecting school crossings, there are always those corners that are unprotected, reminds the auto club.

Do your part when you drive by slowing down to 15 miles per hour near schools and being especially allert for youngsters who may run into the street.

Let us help you. We listen. 24 hrs. We CARE, We're Free. Suicide Prevention Center 373-0713.

Journalism Scholarship Aid Offered

A new scholarship program that will provide 20 scholarships in journalism to help meet the growing need for trained personnel in black media will be funded by R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Company in cooperation with the National Newspapers Publisher's Association (NNPA).

John H. Sengstake, NNPA president and publisher of the Chicago Defender, hailed the program as a "significant contribution by Reynolds to help strengthen the ranks of black journalists in the U.S."

Frank L. Stanley, chairman of NNPA's scholarship foundation and publisher of the Louisville Defender, who helped formulate the scholarship program, said, "I am pleased to see the program become reality. The Reynolds Tobacco scholarships in journalism will provide real opportunities for many young writers who might have been unable to attend college." Stanley added that "this is the largest group of scholarships which we have received in the history of NNPA."

Under the course of the seven-year program, five students would enter as freshmen during the fall of 1972. Each year through 1975, five new journalism students would enter the program, until the first graduates in 1976.

After the 1976 graduates, the journalism scholars would be graduated at the rate of five students per year until the program is completed in 1979.

Resigns

One of the highest ranking Blacks in the Defense Department hierarchy has resigned "under a great deal of pressure" from his post as civil rights chief in the Pentagon.

Frank Render, 35, resigned his job, telling his superiors "he wishes to return to his former work." Reached at his home in Alexandria, Virginia, Render said he had been under pressure to quit.

A spokesman for Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird said Laird was "not satisfied with progress that has been made" under Render's office in eradicating racial discrimination.

Brigadier General Daniel James, a top Pentagon spokesman, said Render resigned his $36,000-a-year position. The announcement came after reports circulated that Assistant Secretary of Defense Roger Kelley and Laird were unhappy with Render's performance and were looking for another Black person to replace him.

Render was appointed to the job a little more than 14 months ago and had been one of the highest ranking Blacks in the Defense Department.

No Vote Is Needed

A public vote is not required for approval of certain types of low-cost housing that are privately financed, according to State Attorney General Evelle J. Younger.

Asked his opinion on federally subsidized housing by State Assemblyman Robert G. Beverly, Younger said no vote is required on such projects as "235" housing that are heavily subsidized by the federal government.

What Public Thinks About Car Insurance

The no-fault insurance system is favored by Americans 5.8 to 3, according to a public opinion survey undertaken on behalf of the United States Department of Transportation.

However, the report showed that approximately 65 percent of those questioned with respect to their auto insurance coverage were satisfied, while only 22 percent expressed dissatisfaction and 13 percent had neutral attitudes.

The report was prepared by the Survey Research Center of the Institute of Social Research at the University of Michigan.

The report states that after various features of auto insurance had been discussed in the interviews, 57 percent of those interviewed indicated they favored the "no-fault" system of insurance, rather than the system which requires a person to prove that the other driver was at fault before payment is made.

The complete report is for sale at $1.25 from the Superintendent of Documents, United States Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402.

The study covers a wide variety of subjects related to peoples' attitudes toward auto insurance. These include the extent of satisfaction and dissatisfaction with auto insurance, experience with such insurance, experience with the settlement of claims, the tort law system and coverages.

Representative letters of complaint which have been sent to members of Congress and the executive branch of the federal government are included.

The opinion survey is based on data collected in May and August of 1969, through personal interviews with 3,075 people, most of whom were heads of family units, living in a national cross-section sample of dwelling places.

It found that "the American people's attitudes toward auto insurance are neither wholly favorable nor wholly unfavorable."

Fourteen percent of the car-owning families reported that they had had their insurance canceled or had been refused renewal some time during the preceding year.

More than 50 percent of those interviewed had heard of friends or others who had been canceled out.

Of those canceled, a majority said they considered the action unfair, even though the company had given a reason in over half the cases.

Most persons who were canceled or denied renewal managed to secure other insurance.

May Close Loophole In Drunk Driving Law

The California State Automobile Association has commended the state Senate for its positive action in closing a loophole in a California drunk driving law.

"With advancement of Senator Donald Grunsky's bill (SB 1312) from the Senate to the Assembly on a 28-0 vote, it is evident that the Legislature is fully committed to correcting the hazard to safety presented by the habitual drunk driver," said Neal Garrison, executive president of the automobile association.

Senator Grunsky (R, Central Coast Counties) introduced SB 1312, which states that when a person is arrested on a second offense drunk driving charge, any earlier conviction can only be challenged through the court which tried the earlier case, or by appeal, or through an action filed in the Superior Court.

"No longer will courts be able merely to treat the multiple offender as a first time offender and restore his driving privileges to the detriment of the driving public's safety," Garrison said.

Senator Grunsky's bill is aimed at systematically removing the habitual drunk driver from public roads and highways until evidence is presented showing his drinking problem is corrected.

Drunk driving arests are growing at an alaming rate in California. This problem is compounded by the fact that 10,000 multiple offenders have been treated as first-time offenders in the past two years.

Expenditures Increase

The State's General Fund cash receipts were $205,854,078 and government cost expenditures were $368,265,772 during July, the first month of Fiscal year 1971-72, State Controller Houston I. Flournoy reported recently.

The revenues were $2,614,314 greater than for the same period a year ago, which is an increase of 1.29 percent. The expenditures were $65,825,004 higher than a year earlier, an increase of 21.76 percent.

The Controller said the revenue increase was mostly attributable to early receipt of money from the Health Care Deposits Fund which was not received until October last year and a jump in inheritance tax receipts. These overcame declines in the personal income tax, horse racing revenues, bank and corporation franchise and income taxes and interest income.

He also pointed out that the early months of each fiscal year ordinarily are a "dry period" in state finances when cash expenditures are not matched by the flow of cash revenues.

Major expenditure increases over July 1970 occurred in school apportionments, public assistance programs, bond interest and redemption and the University of California.

Major revenue sources produced the following receipts during July: sales tax, $115, 263,007 (up $487,123 from July 1970); bank and corporation franchise and income taxes, $18,133,549 (down $5,196,045); personal income tax, $13,212, 139 (down $1,378,262); cigarette tax, $14,294,489 (up $459,841); inheritance tax, $16,527,263 (up $3,645,042); liquor taxes and licenses, $9,751,764 (up $927,790); health care receipts, $8,569,022 (up $8,148,177); interest income, $1,602,976 (down $3,829,077); horse racing revenue, $1,947,015 (down $1,461,830).

How Should Pollution Be Measured?

A three-year study will attempt to answer one of the nation's most fundamental but neglected environmental questions:

How well are we monitoring pollution and how can we improve?

The National Science Foundation has awarded a $152,400 grant to the Lawerence Laboratory at UC-Berkeley for the first phase of a proposed three-year survey of environmental instrumentation.

A team of 18 investigators will be assigned to evaluate the capabilities of the more than 1,000 monitoring instruments now in use, judge the potential of new instruments and techniques and recommend improvements.

Their findings will be made available nationwide to present and prospective users of environmental monitoring equipment, including university, government, and industry authorities.

Dr. Jack M. Hollander of the Laboratory's Environmental Research Office said the study "will fill a real need in the environmental field. Accurate pollution measurements are essential, but in many cases the state of the art is far from satisfactory. Inadequate and cumbersome techniques are still in wide use."

Many Autos Suffer From Common Ills

If your car doesn't seem to be running as smoothly as it once did, chances are it has some simple but very common ailments. The California State Automobile Association has discovered that about seven out of every ten cars that have been checked in its diagnostic clinic have deficiencies that could be corrected by a simple engine tune-up.

In a survey of cars tested in its clinic, the association found that seven out of ten had improper engine ignition timing and idle speed setting. Six out of ten had valve covers that leaked. Six out of ten also had improperly aimed headlights.

Burned or badly pitted distributor points that reduce enwheel imbalance, improper manifold heat riser valve operation, wheel misalignment and improperly lubricated front wheel bearings.

About one-third of the cars checked had brake lining that was worn too thin for safe, reliable braking and tires with insufficient tread depth.

The average motorist who drives about 10,000 miles a year should have a minor tune-up once a year, the CSAA says. This should include new distributor points and spark plugs, adjustment of basic ignition timing and carburetor adjustment. The owner should also have the smog device on his car inspected.

A minor tune-up should cost $25 to $35 for 4- and 6-cylinder cars and about $35 to $45 for 8-cylinder cars. A competent mechanic does a compression check before anything else to determine the engine's condition. He is then able to advise you if valves are in good condition and the engine will respond properly to a tune-up.

For the do-it-yourselfer who can to a little "tinkering" with his automobile, the CSAA offers some tips.

* Check the battery and its cables for corrosion. Pull the battery out of the car whenever you see evidence of corrosion. Clean the battery carrier and cables with a mild solution of baking soda and water. Coat cable connections lightly with grease.

* Look for oil leaks around valve covers, the oil pan, the oil filter housing, transmission pan and timing case cover.

Says No-Fault Insurance Would Save Time, Money

Californians will spend an unnecessary $50 million more a year for auto insurance and continue to endure long delays in collecting for their losses unless pending no-fault auto insurance legislation is passed when the legislature reconvenes in September.

This was predicted by Louis W. Niggeman, president of Firemen's Fund American Insurance Companies, in endorsing Assembly Bill 1505, a modified no-fault auto insurance reform plan that was approved by the Assembly in July and is now before the Senate.

Niggeman said the measure faces almost certain defeat unless the public expresses support for the plan. He accused opposing trial lawyers of "distorting the issues and misrepresenting the facts... in a desperate attempt to preserve the outdated auto insurance system in California."

Niggeman asked Californians to contact their state senators immediately and urge that the measure be given top priority when the legislature reconvenes.

He said the bill will provide "a soundly conceived insurance system that will serve the best interests of all affected segments of the public. It will do what people want insurance to do: compensate the injured for their losses," he said.

"No-fault" means accident victims would receive payment for medical costs, lost income and other benefits from their own insurance companies, regardless of who caused the accident and without the need to sue.

AB1505 would limit the right to sue but guarantee prompt payments for all economic loss up to $10,000, including medical expenses, wage loss up to $750 per month, funeral and burial costs up to $1,000 and other benefits.

If losses exceed $10,000, lawsuits would be allowed to recover the additional loss. An accident victim could also sue for pain, suffering and inconvenience, if his medical expenses were more than $1,000 or if his injury were severe.

Niggeman advocated replacing the existing lawsuit system because it is:

*TOO EXPENSIVE--About 25 cents out of every premium dollar is spent on lawyers, claims investigators and others to determine who caused the accident.

*TOO SLOW--Liability claims take six to 16 months to settle. Serious cases drag on for years.

*INEQUITABLE--The system ends up paying four and one-half times the actual loss on small claims but only one-third in serious cases.

*INCOMPLETE--Since only the completely innocent victim can collect from the liability system, many so-called "guilty" victims are denied benefits.

Niggeman estimated 17,000 seriously or fatally injured victims fell into this category last year in California.

Niggeman said "meaningful reform" should not be put off any longer. "Delay of even one year will only add to the tragedy of thousands of accident victims who are paid too little, too late, if they are paid anything at all," he said.

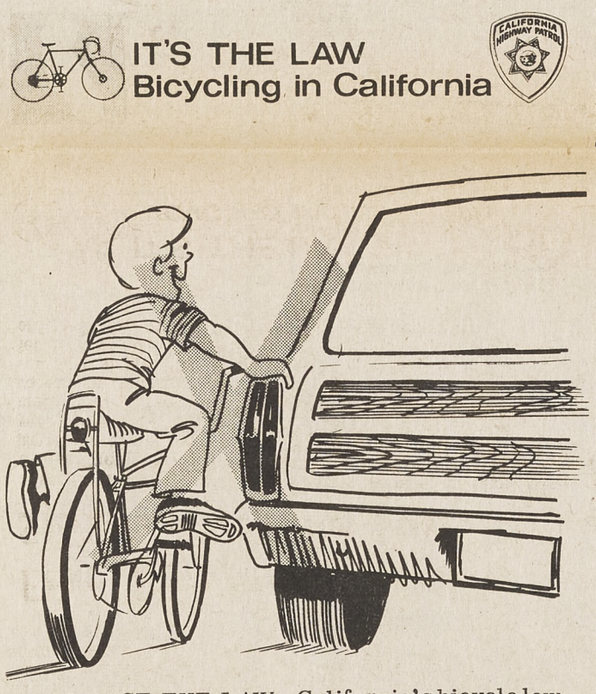
Wilt Chamberlain is the all-time leader in four categories in the National Basketball Association. They are: free throws attempted 10,210; field goals made 11,091; field goals percentage .530; and average points per game 34.3.

Free Pamphlet Outlines State's Bicycling Laws

The California Highway Patrol is placing increased emphasis on bicycle safety this year because of the many accidents last year which involved in injury accidents.

A new bicycle law pamphlet is available at all CHP offices or by writing to CHP Information and Education Office, P.O. Box 898, Sacramento CA 95804.

The CHP pamphlet stresses the fact that bike laws are real laws and must be obeyed by all cyclists and that bicycles, like other vehicles, must follow traffic patterns.



AGAINST THE LAW - California's bicycle law pamphet warns against any person on bicycle, coaster, roller skates, sled or toy vehicle attaching himself or vehicle to another mode of transportation. (See story)

Want A PLP? Ask DMV

A catolog of words and expressions for use on personal license plates (PLP's) has been compiled by the Department of Motor Vehicles for the convenience of PLP customers.

Containing hundreds of combinations which have not yet been issued to anyone, the list is being widely distributed and is available at all California DMV offices.

At least 33,000 personal license plates are already being displayed on the cars of California motorists. The vast majority of people selected common first names, last names, nicknames or initials, and relatively few of these remain.

"This catalog suggests other avenues of self-expression," said Director of Motor Vehicles Robert C. Cozens.

"The number of possible combinations is limited only by the ingenuity of the purchaser. A personal license plate can be wuited to the temperment of any vehicle owner, who can order it for his car, motorcycle or pick-up truck."

Money paid for PLP's goes into a California Environment Protection Fund. Since the program began last August some $600,000 has been made available for at least seven ecology-oriented projects, principally:

*$205,000 to the Air Resources Board in order to expand the State's air monitoring program snd coordinate air pollution control for the 11 air basins in California.

*$105,000 to the Air Resources Board to help determine when agricultural burning should not be allowed.

*$ 8,200 for the continuation of the Environmental Quality Study Council which is charged with developing statewide guidelines in all areas of environmental quality.

*$37,000 to help fund pilot conservation education classes in public schools.

*$13,500 to the Los Angeles-Ventura Regional Study Commission to evaluate opportunities of establishing an urban national park there.

*$22,500 to the Department of Aeronautics to help determine the environmental problems of operating local airports.

"Most of the Environmental Fund is dedicated to clean air research and smog control. By purchasing a set of personal license plates, Californians can help protect and preserve their state's environment," Cozens said.

Why

Ella Fitzgerald, who was scheduled to open the Third Annual Concord Summer Festival on Friday, August 6, was canceled for medical reasons. Bill Cosby substituted for Miss Fitzgerald.

Festival officials said they were notified by Miss Fitzgerald's personal manager, Norman Granz, that the famed singer was suffering from a burst blood vessel in one eye and that doctors had advised cancellation of upcoming engagements.

He Likes Auto Ban

Congressman Jerome R. Waldie (D, Concord) took his two teenage sons, Jon and Jeff, his former law partner Dick Rockwell and Rockwell's 20-year-old son Ray on a ten-day back-pack trip in the Sierras during the recent Congressional recess. They started east of Bass Lake at Granite Creek Campground, hiked over Isberg Pass and down into Yosemite Valley -- a total of 55 miles.

"The Sierras have always been a mysterious, formidable and absolutely beautiful range of mountains to me," says Waldie, "but my experience with them has been remote, usually from the inside of a fast moving automobile. The intimacy of living in those mountains for ten days, carrying all your possessions and needs on you back and feeling, smalling, sleeping and walking them for 24 hours of each day is an entirely different experience."

Waldie says that his concern that such opportunities to leave civilization are rapidly disappearing was "intensified by this trip."

Even on Isberg Pass -- over 10,000 feet high -- Waldie's party found a group of five camping just below its summit. And, he says, "people abounded" on the party's descent into Yosemite Valley.

"We must have passed a hundred back-packers and numerous stock trains between Isberg and Lake Merced," says Waldie. "By the time we hit the trail junction behind Half Dome, it seemed we were no longer in 'back country,' but were surrounded by campers and constantly being passed by a stream of back-packers." The trail, he says, was "much like a pathway at the zoo in Golden Gate Park."

To Waldie and his party, the Valley seemed "like a Russian River resort, teeming with people and automobiles and debris. The only 'positive' sign that the population pressures on this incomparably beautiful valley were being recognized was the recent banning of automobiles from certain areas of the Valley floor."

Waldie characterizes that ban as "a marked improvement and one that should be extended throughout the National Park System."

New Minister Will Organize Church In Western Addition

Hannibal Williams was recently ordained as a pastor in the Presbyterian denomination at an impressive service held at Howard Presbyterian Church in San Francisco where as a ruling elder his interest in preparing for the ministry developed. Many dignitaries and community people participated.

Mr. williams is called to be the organizing pastor for a new church ministry in San Francisco's multi-ethnic Western Addition. He received his call through the Synod's New Church Development Committee and the Office of Ethnic Church Affairs and was confirmed by the San Francisco Presbytery. The nature of this new ministry will depend on the "self-determination" of the people in the area--their needs and their wishes.

The new minister is no stranger to this section of the city, where he and Mrs. Williams reside. He is past president of WACO (Western Addition Community Organization), past president of WAPAC (Western Addition Project Area Committee) and past vice-president of the San Francisco branch of the NAACP.

Mr. Williams is on the advisory board of the Westside Community Mental Health Center chairman of the Synod's Office of Ethnic Church Affairs and a member of the steering committee for National Black Presbyterians United. He has been appointed to the National Committee for the Self-Development of People and serves on its steering committee.

The Rev. Eugene Turner, of Ethnic Church Affairs, has stated that "Mr. Williams came to seminary training as a mature man, required to earn his living. We consider it an accomplishment that he took necessary courses at San Francisco State College, then attended San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo, and was graduated this June 12, earning the degree of Master of Divinity. We believe he has much to contribute as he begins his ordained ministry in the Western Addition of San Francisco."

Solon Offers Free Reports

State Senator Mervyn Dymally (D, Los Angeles County) has announced interested persons may obtain copies of reports he has had made this year on problems facing minority and low-income persons.

Copies are available free from Dymally's district office at 2622 South Western Avenue, Los Angeles. Quantities are available to school classes.

The studies include:

"One, Man, Less Than One Vote," a study showing how methods of electing city councilmen allegedly deprive minority groups of equal representation in Los Angeles, Pasadena, Santa Ana, San Diego, San Bernardoin, Bakersfield and Oakland.

"Property Insurance in the Ghetto: Separate and Unequal," an analysis of insurance company discrimination against minority area property owners.

"Who Protects the Borrower," a probe of excessive charges and and questionable and illegal tactics used by mortgage loan brokers.

"Landlord-Tenant Law: The Continuing Need for an Overhaul," an examination of how laws regulating the landlord and tenant are stacked heavily in favor of the landlord.

"Prisons, a California Crisis," a compilation of newspaper articles on conditions in California prisons and on needed reforms.

"Black Caucus Report: Treatment of Black Inmates at Soledad Prison," a July, 1970, study signed by the state's six black legislators, pointing to discriminatory and inhumane treatment of inmates at Soledad Prison.

In your car, advises the National Automobile Club, always carry a flashlight with fresh batteries as well as warning flares.

Chrysler Hard Hit By Rules

Under pressure from the Massachusetts Banking Department, Chrysler Credit Corporation agreed to refund about $100,000 in finance charges of 279 car buyers.

The state agency had charged that contracts written by some Chrysler dealers failed to disclose the annual percentage rate of interest, as required by the federal and the Massachusetts truth-in-lending laws.

Neither law requires creditors to refund finance charges unless a customer wins a noncompliance suit (in which case he is entitled to receive double his finance charges, plus court costs and attorneys' fees).

Chrysler Credit, however, yielded to the threat of criminal prosecution. If it had been convicted in such an action, it would have been subject to the punishments prescribed in the laws.

Unintentional violators of the Massachusetts law may be fined $500 and imprisoned for six months. Willful and intentional violators of either law are subject to fines of up to $5000 and one year in prison.

The Chrysler settlement does not preclude consumers from filing suit individually or as a class, a state banking official said.

The federal Truth-in-Lending law permits each state to enforce its own law, if that law is substantially similar to the federal law and the state has the means to enforce it.

Determination as to whether a state law is, in fact, substantially similar -- and granting the state an exemption from the federal law -- is done by the Federal Reserve Board.

Massachusetts had received its exemption in July of 1970 and appears, in this instance, to have endorced its law with greater effect than the Federal Trade Commission which is charged with enforcing the Truth-in Lending law. No refunds have yet been negotiated by the FTC.

FTC has provisionally accepted a consent order barring the Chrysler Corporation and its advertising agency, Young & Rubicam, Inc., from violating the advertising provisions in the Federal law.

The order forbids Chrysler to advertise terms not really available to most people and says that advertisements containing specific credit terms must disclose, among other things, the cash price, the required downpayment, the number of payments and the annual percentage rate.

The FTC's complaint concerned ads for Simca and Sunbeam cars.

CORRECT DIET

The Central Mission Trails Heart Association says a correct diet for teenagers today is one which will protect them from premature heart disease twenty or thirty years from now. Fow fat and low cholesterol are the keys, says the agency.
